Listing Analysis

After reviewing the listings across the account, we found that all products are performing well from a conversion standpoint, with Unit Session Percentages consistently above 17%, which is a strong benchmark in this category. This indicates that the listings are already converting efficiently once traffic lands on the detail pages.

In addition, the main images, supporting images, and overall visual presentation are well-optimized and competitive within the market. There are no major gaps in image quality, or above-the-fold presentation that would currently limit conversion rates. Based on this data, the listings are not a bottleneck for performance at this stage.

However, there are a couple of things we can do

- Title A/B testing specially for the low revenues products
- Prioritize the top keywords in the title and bullets for which we want to rank for.

From an SEO perspective, the titles and bullet points are well-structured, keyword-relevant, and aligned with search intent. The primary and secondary keywords are properly incorporated, supporting both organic visibility and PPC relevance.

However, we need to Add A+ content in the wheel brush which will further enhance the conversion rate.

Based on the attached market share and pricing data, our product is priced competitively, with most key competitors operating within a similar price range. Despite comparable pricing, some competitors, such as SMINDER, are achieving strong sales performance. This is primarily driven by higher review volume and social proof, even though they are offering a similar value proposition, including multi-pack options.

While pricing is not a limiting factor for our product, the review gap is a key differentiator impacting market share. To gain a stronger competitive edge and improve our market position, we will need to further enhance our overall pricing strategies initially to get rank for most of the important keywords

Placement Optimization - Top of Search is generating strong traffic; however, conversion rates are low and ACOS remains high. Since this is an exact keyword targeting campaign, we can continue investing for a limited period if it contributes positively to organic ranking. Otherwise, ad spend should be reallocated toward higher-performing placements to improve overall efficiency.

Issues Identified

- The account is significantly behind in organic rankings, resulting in low organic visibility for key, high-intent keywords.

- There is notable wasted ad spend, as identified in the search term report, driven by inefficient or non-converting search terms.

- Several campaigns are not fully optimized, as highlighted in the campaign optimization overview, leading to suboptimal performance.

Plan of Action (POA)

Missing opportunities in the Ad structure

Search Term Optimization & Negative Targeting
We will conduct a detailed review of the Search Term Report to identify irrelevant keywords and add them as negatives to prevent wasted ad spend. Additionally, we will optimize low or non-performing targets to improve campaign efficiency.

Scaling Other Match Type Campaigns
We will reduce over-reliance on Auto and Exact campaigns by introducing and scaling additional campaign types, including Phrase, Product Targeting. We will expand these campaigns by adding more high-converting keywords and optimizing bids to scale sales while maintaining efficiency.

Keyword Ranking Improvement (20–60 Spot Focus)
We will shift our focus toward keywords currently ranked between 20 to 60 spots to improve the organic sales ratio. By boosting bids and optimizing content, we aim to push these keywords into the top 10. Alongside PPC efforts, adjusting pricing, offering coupons, and running discount strategies (which is implemented already) will help improve organic rankings and expand our organic keyword distribution.

Campaign-Level Optimization
All existing campaigns will be reviewed and optimized individually. This includes bid adjustments, budget reallocation, placement optimization, and structural improvements to align campaigns with their intended objectives (ranking, profitability, or testing).

Conclusion

By executing this action plan, our objective is to systematically reduce wasted ad spend, improve overall campaign efficiency, and strengthen keyword-level profitability. These optimizations will support improved organic rankings, enhance brand visibility across high-intent search placements, and create a more scalable PPC structure. As a result, we expect to drive sustainable sales growth while maintaining stronger control over ACOS and TACOS over time.
